January Program

Researching Your New England Ancestors

A free lecture by Kay Allen, Accredited Genealogist and Native New Englander

Whether your ancestors arrived on the Mayflower or came to New England at a later date, our program will outline some New England genealogy resources for researching your New England roots. Contrary to common belief, there are still things to be discovered in New England. Please join us to explore these means available to today's family history researcher—including quite an array of books in Davis' own genealogy library!

Kay Allen is an accredited genealogist in Eastern States with 40 years of experience in genealogy research. She is a native New Englander with a BA from San Jose State in Social Science, History, and Political Science, and has taught at Family History Centers for 35 years.
