

DAVIS GENEALOGY CLUB

JUNE 27, 2011

Scottish Research

Speaker: Cath Madden Trindle, CG

Contrary to popular belief, the records of Scotland begin long before the advent of statutory registration in 1855. In some cases it is possible to trace families back to the sixteenth century using easily available records. Scottish research and retrieval of the records of Scotland is completely intertwined with the use of the Internet. This lecture provides a look at some basic records [statutory registers, census, old parish records, testaments] of Scotland and discusses the physical and economic ease of using Scotland's government websites to retrieve them. Please join us for this much-requested presentation and learn to find your Scottish ancestors.

Cath Madden Trindle is a certified genealogist who earned her degrees from BYU and the National Institute of Genealogical Studies. A retired financial system consultant, she serves as Treasurer of the Federation of Genealogical Societies. An experienced and popular presenter, Cath speaks throughout the country about the records of Ireland and Scotland, Canada, Minnesota and Michigan, and about storytelling.
